Note: There is a strict, highly recommended "rule" to rest on Day 1 in Leh to avoid severe Acute Mountain Sickness (AMS). You must acclimatize for at least 24 to 48 hours, avoiding physical exertion, heavy meals, alcohol, and smoking. This allows your body to adjust to the low oxygen levels at 11,500 ft altitude.

- Remember to take spare batteries for your camera, as the altitude and cold will drain them out quicker.
- When travelling around Leh, it's best to avoid alcohol; drink water instead. Breathing in dry air drains the moisture from the lungs, so make sure you consume at least 4–5 litres to stay hydrated.

- It is advisable to leave tips/gratuities for restaurant staff, coach drivers and Guides as this is a custom prevalent in this part of the region. - Hotels and camps in the Nubra Valley and near Pangong Lake receive limited electricity supply. The use of generators is restricted and generally discouraged due to environmental regulations imposed by the state government. Guests are advised to charge their mobile phones and other electronic devices during available power hours and cooperate accordingly. We also encourage you to carry a power bank at all times to avoid any inconvenience
- All tents are Swiss-style tents in the deluxe category, equipped with attached bathrooms and maintained at standard room size for your comfort

- Please note that camp stays are generally situated in remote areas with minimal surroundings and very little nearby light, as there are no restaurants, malls, or shops in the vicinity. While this may feel a bit intimidating, it is completely normal for such locations, and there is no reason to be afraid, as the staff is well acquainted with the local surroundings. These camps and cottages operate only for six months, from May to September, and remain completely closed for the rest of the year. Passengers are therefore requested not to compare these places with metro cities or plains, where such facilities are readily available, and instead enjoy the calm and peaceful natural surroundings, clear skies, and pleasant weather.
- Please make sure to carry necessary medicines with you, especially for those who may experience nausea or headaches, which are common on long routes in the Leh region due to low oxygen levels at high altitudes.
